

When you have a sincere desire to draw and/or paint you CAN learn to do so.

Everyone is born with artistic potential not just a select few.

Rediscover your lost ability to draw and paint

Love your creative self. Let go of old beliefs that say you can't.

It DOESN'T take long to learn, have to be hard, require a lot of supplies or space, to develop ability.

When you SEE like a fine artist you stop struggling and start drawing/painting.

Because you really CAN.

Creativity isn't about perfection, or making other people happy. Your goals are personal and personally important.

In art you create your own rules. Simply look at the history of art to know that is true.

The more you know about yourself, what you like and don't like, the easier it is to draw and paint.
